

LWCC to hold event for World Wetlands Day 2014

To celebrate World Wetlands Day, the Las Vegas Wash Coordination Committee is organizing a free event at the Clark County Wetlands Park Thursday, Feb. 6, 10 a.m.- 2 p.m. Several local and Federal agencies will provide informational exhibits and fun, educational displays. Attendees can participate in guided nature walks, educational talks on wetlands plants and live animal demonstrations. Participants also can participate in a seeding and vegetation transplant effort over a six-acre section of the Clark County Mitigation Ponds adjacent to the Nature Center.

The World Wetlands Day theme for 2014 focuses on the evolving relationship between agriculture and wetlands. Historically wetlands have often been viewed negatively in an agricultural context, but modern management practices have shown that these relationships can be symbiotic. More»

New e-Newsletter design

Hopefully the December e-Newsletter pleasantly surprised you with its new look. The goal of the updated design is to deliver an informative product in a fashion that is aesthetically pleasing to the reader. The monthly newsletter also provides room to partner with other Las Vegas Wash Coordination Committee members to help promote Las Vegas Wash related events. The LWCC website is currently undergoing a similar update to improve the user experience.
